

HOT WATER BOTTLE LEADS TO CAPTURE OF CHECK PASSER

Youth Admits Swindling
Stores in Half a Dozen
Cities of East.

A hot water bottle led to the capture early today of a youth who, the police say, has confessed to cashing scores of bad checks in New York, Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Newark, Hoboken and other places. He was unable to give the total amount, but said it was around $500 in New York. His victims were drug stores, delicatessens and other business establishments. The prisoner described himself as Guy O. Kessler, twenty-two, of No. 695 Lenox Avenue, son of the Chief of Police, or former Chief, of Houston, Tex.

He went into Stecker's drug store at No. 249 West 155th Street late last night and bought a hot water bottle and some other things amounting to $5.77. The indifferent ay in which he picked the bottle aroused the suspicion of the proprietor, and when he tendered a check for $27.50 he was given the goods and $5 and told to come back for the rest of the change in an hour.

Detectives Stanley Gorman and Edward Shields of the West 155th Street Station went into the drug store to telephone and were told of the check. They decided to interview the man and kept in hiding until he returned at 2:30 A. M. and asked for the rest of the money.

After talking to him they searched him and say they found half a dozen other checks ready to be cashed. They were made out to Kessler, the police say. The name signed to them is J. C. Conlin, who is Treasurer of the Nonpareil Boat Club at 150th Street and North River.

Kessler said he had worked for the boat club as chef. The police say Kessler said his was an easy game. All he had to do was to go into a bank, ask for a bankbook and then fill out checks to suit himself. The police say he gave thirteen New York establishments where he passed the checks, all for amounts ranging around $20, and said he had been doing it for six months.

The police say a search of his room revealed that he had a weakness for hot water bottles, as the place was well stocked with them. There was a lot of other merchandise they say he evidently bought as a means of getting the checks cashed.

VACCINATION UPHOLD IN JERSEY TOWNSHIP

State Board Sustains Action Barring Pupils From Schools.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Nov. 10.—The children of James Adams, Luke Bates and George Ware cannot attend the public schools of Berlin Township until vaccinated, according to a decision just made by the State Board of Education. Walter S. Keweenaw, attorney for the parents, appealed after State Commissioner of Education Dwight made a similar ruling.

They have now been out since March, when the parents were fined $100 each and ordered imprisoned until the fines were paid. The father of one of the children is said to have threatened to shoot any doctor sent by the school authorities to vaccinate his children.

BLIND EDITOR ELECTED, LEADS COUNTY TICKET

Thomas M. Muir, of Plainfield, staged remarkable campaign. Thomas M. Muir, blind newspaper editor of Plainfield, N. J., has been elected to the New Jersey Legislature after one of the most remarkable political campaigns ever staged in that State. Although a Republican and in the face of a Democratic landslide, the blind man led his ticket to Union County with 75,075 votes, 715 more than Ernest B. Ackerman, the Congressional choice from that district, and 1,422 more than the candidate for State Senator, Arthur N. Pierce.

Muir, who entered the race against fifteen Republicans and Democrats, says his victory is due to the vigorous campaign he conducted. He covered more mileage and spoke to more people than all the other candidates together, and devoted the final two weeks of his grueling tour exclusively to boosting the candidacy of his life-long friend, William N. Runyon, for Governor.
